

It is good to see you!

My name is Homo heidelbergensis, and I am one of the hominins. I have the largest brain of the hominins so far, and could hunt large game animals as well. I look much more like the modern human, both in my size and appearance. I used spears for hunting, and was known to work together, use shelter, and manipulate fire well. I shared what I gathered and had, and I might have even held funeral proceedings for my brothers and sisters once they died. Make sure to read about the hominins too!
