

Hey!

My name is Paranthropus Boisei, and I am one of the hominins! I was found to be a distinct species thanks to the Zinj Skull found in 1959. I had remarkably strong teeth and chewing muscles, but despite that I still preferred softer foods usually. I lived on grasslands, but occasionally settled near bodies of water like lakes or rivers. I might have used some basic tools, but we are not sure. I coexisted with some of the hominins, so make sure to check out the information on them too!
